

Asian Development Bank & Hong Kong, China

FACT SHEET

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) is dedicated to reducing poverty in the Asia and Pacific region through pro-poor sustainable economic growth, social development, and good governance. Established in 1966, it is owned by 67 member nations—48 from the region—who have committed $143.53 billion to the vision of a region free of poverty.

Despite the region's many successes, it remains home to two thirds of the world's poor: 1.8 billion people who live on less than $2 a day, with 903 million struggling on less than $1.25 a day.

Hong Kong, China is the 25th largest shareholder. It has contributed $298.26 million in capital subscription and $55.96 million to special funds since joining in 1969.

Companies and consultants from Hong Kong, China have been awarded $847.3 million in procurement contracts (based on nationality of contractor) on ADB-financed projects since 1970.

In 2008, lending volume was $10.49 billion (86 projects), with technical assistance at $274.5 million (299 projects) and grant-financed projects at $811.4 million (49 projects). This also generated $1.65 billion in direct value-added cofinancing from financing partnerships operations.

Over the last 5 years (2004–2008), ADB's annual lending volume averaged $7.70 billion, with technical assistance averaging $231.5 million and grant-financed projects $655.1 million.

As of 31 December 2008, the cumulative totals were $143.53 billion in loans for 2,147 projects in 41 countries, $4.08 billion for 263 grant projects, and $3.55 billion for 6,599 technical assistance projects.

In addition to loans, grants, and technical assistance, ADB uses guarantees and equity investments to help its developing member countries.

With headquarters in Manila, it has 26 offices around the world and more than 2,000 staff from over 50 countries.

Shareholding and Voting Power

Hong Kong, China is the 17th largest shareholder in ADB among its regional members. Overall, Hong Kong, China is the 25th largest shareholder. It shares both positions with Myanmar.

Number of shares held:	19,270 (0.54% of total shares)
Votes:	32,502 (0.73% of total membership, 1.13% of total regional membership)
Overall capital subscription:	$298.26 million
Paid-in capital subscription:	$20.90 million

Contributions to Special Funds Resources

Hong Kong, China has contributed to the Asian Development Fund (ADF), which is ADB's window for concessional lending to its borrowing members, and to the Technical Assistance Special Fund (TASF), which provides grants to borrowing members to help prepare projects and undertake technical or policy studies.

Contributions to the ADF (committed):	$54.46 million
Contributions to the TASF (committed):	$1.50 million

Cofinancing

ADB arranges cofinancing from bilateral, multilateral, export credit agencies, and commercial sources, in the form of grants for technical assistance and components of loan projects, loans, and credit enhancement such as guarantees and syndications. Cofinancing brings additional resources to ADB's project financing. In 2008, total direct value-added (DVA) cofinancing amounted to $1.65 billion for 101 projects, of which $1.57 billion was for 25 investment projects and $84.2 million was for 76 technical assistance projects. Cumulative DVA cofinancing for the period 1970–2008 amounted to $15.74 billion for 1,221 projects, of which $14.97 billion was for 305 investment projects and $772.65 million was for 916 technical assistance projects.

Cofinancing with Hong Kong, China from 1 January 2004 to 31 December 2008 comprised the following.

Investment Project:	1 project, cofinancing of $6.75 million
Commercial:	1 project, cofinancing of $6.75 million

Trust Fund Agreements

Trust funds are key instruments to mobilize and channel grants from external sources to finance technical assistance and components of investment projects. They play an important role in complementing ADB's own grant resources. So far, bilateral, multilateral, and private sector partners have contributed more than $2.0 billion in grants to ADB operations. Initially, trust funds were established through single-donor channel financing agreements targeting numbers of specific sectors. Over time, ADB has been increasingly switching to multidonor trust funds covering thematic issues. A more recent development is the establishment of trust funds under theme-focused umbrella initiatives called financing partnership facilities, which support priority areas in ADB Strategy 2020, such as water, clean energy, and regional cooperation and integration.

Loans, Technical Assistance, and Grants

Hong Kong, China received only five loans from ADB, totaling $101.5 million. All the loans were from ADB's ordinary capital resources. It has not borrowed from ADB since 1981. No technical assistance has been provided to Hong Kong, China.

The five loans given were the following.

Share of ADB's Procurement Contracts

Each year, ADB provides loans to fund projects and activities in its Asian and Pacific developing members and several billion US dollars' worth of contracts to procure goods and consulting services.

Procurement contracts for goods and works, and consulting services under loan and technical assistance operations totaled $6.97 billion in 2007 and $7.52 billion in 2008. Cumulative procurement as of 31 December 2008 was $92.83 billion. Most contracts were awarded on the basis of international competition, which is open to firms and individuals from any ADB member country, regional or nonregional.
